

me of the friends of Mr. Blaine this feeling amounts to exasperation, especially as the adjournment this afternoon without a ballot of any kind is regarded as a "jack eye for the ex-Speaker." The impression is growing that if Hayes will not accept the second place with Blaine, but will stand out for first place, he will able to defeat Blaine for the nomination.

MR. BLAINE'S HEALTH.

Mr. Blaine has recovered his strength so far that he may be able to take his seat in the House at the opening of the session to-morrow. It was expected by some that he would present himself on the floor to-day, but if any such intention were entertained he was doubtless discouraged, if not forbidden, by his physicians.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

The greatest possible interest and no little anxiety have been expressed here to-day concerning the proceedings of the Cincinnati Convention. Only nominal attention was paid to anything else at the Capitol, here, as well as at the newspaper and telegraph offices throughout the city, bulletins were posted and eagerly read by constantly increasing crowds from an early hour until news came of the Convention's adjournment at 12 o'clock.

HOUSE NEWS.

The session of the House was occupied by the delivery of a number of set speeches on various topics, which were scarcely listened to; and there was, probably, at no time, a quorum in the chamber. About one o'clock a fabricated despatch, purporting to give the result of an alleged first ballot, was attached to the top of telegrams on the bulletin board near the entrance to the hall of the House, and numerous copies were hastily taken and distributed. Calculations as to what result would be for some time made upon it and heatedly discussed, but the deception was soon detected.

An extraordinary number of private telegrams have received here throughout the day and evening. Assistant Grant, Secretary Bristol and Mr. Blaine were constantly advised by their respective friends (Chicoutani), and Mr. Blaine has been kept especially busy by the telegraph instrument through which messages are brought direct to his library. He also received many callers throughout the day, and has this morning cheerfully discussed the situation with a considerable number of his personal friends.

The first news of the adjournment of the Convention about balloting was received with great elation by friends of the candidates opposed to Mr. Blaine and caused some uneasiness among the supporters of the other, but subsequent information received through press despatches, that the adjournment was unanimously agreed to at Mr. Frye's suggestion, because Convention hall could not be lighted, removed the impressions which had originally been created by occurrence. Speculations as to the final result to follow, therefore, continue to be widely different.

The republicans here have commenced the erection of a platform for a public meeting to ratify the nomination.

R. BRISTOW ON HIS CANDIDACY.

POSITIVELY DECLINES THE SECOND PLACE—
NO EXPECTATION OF BEING NOMINATED.

WASHINGTON, June 15, 1876.

My friend of Secretary Bristow in this city has received a telegram from Cincinnati asking whether Secretary Bristow would take the second place on the ticket. This telegram having been shown to the Secretary, he said as he did not banker upon the first he would under no circumstances accept the second. Secretary Bristow was at his office this morning and received many callers. He said to one of them that as he did not expect to be nominated he could not be appointed if any other gentleman should be selected, he was grateful to his friends for their efforts in his behalf.

---

CINCINNATI NOTES.

Chicago Inter-Ocean:—An Indiana gentleman just sent to your correspondent:—"Blaine's personal seance is such that he would make people for him in such a case whether they anted to or not." Morton's friends here are con-cernably worried over the report that they have an intriguing or trading with Bristow. They resist every suggestion that would result in the arrest of the * * Senator Jones, the Nevada millionaire, will open up here to-morrow in the interests of banking. He telegraphed to a friend day before yesterday to secure the entire house for himself

Cincinnati Sunday Enquirer:—Frederick Douglass about the only colored man of any prominence who supports Mr. Canklin. * * * The thern delegates, it is rumored, are a unit for giving the Convention to give the South a second place the ticket. * * * About one-eighth of the uthern delegates are colored, and favor Morton. The t have been divided between Blaine, Hayes and tion. * * * A few delegates from the South are understood to favor Conkling, and will do so because President has announced his desire to see the gentleman from New York succeed himself at the White House. * * * Probably one half, if not more, of delegates from the South are federal or republican ...office-holders. Some of them are men character, and some of them are men d to possess no character at all. * * * Colonel Robert M. Douglas, son of the late Stephen A. Douglas, and present United States

...of the ... Douglas ...

... for North Carolina, is also a delegate to the convention. * * * Hon. Edward S. McPherson, old Clerk of the National House of Representatives, is the first delegate from Pennsylvania to put in an appearance. * * * Fred Douglass, who is at the Grand, spent the afternoon in reading the

New York World and chatting with friends. He is one of the most noticeable of the notables. Large and brawny figure—hair bushy and white—wears gold eye-glasses and has a cordial hail-fellow-well-met way of greeting his friends on the back and chuckling out the friendly remark: "Hi, hi, hi." During the seconds Douglass stood in the middle of the stairway, commanding a full view of every one in the rotunda, and commanded by the 2,000 eyes of the spectators before him. Bystanders moved aside and left a little clear space around him. He stood erect and motionless as a ture, with the light of the great chandelier full upon him, bringing his figure out in strong relief to those now, from a background of shadow and dark groups the landing behind him.

---

TILDEN DELEGATES CHOSEN.

— PORTLAND, Me., June 15, 1876.
The First District Democratic Convention to-day elected Tilden delegates to St. Louis.

MIDNIGHT WEATHER REPORT.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE CHIEF SIGNAL OFFICER,
WASHINGTON, JUNE 16—1 A. M. }

Probabilities.

For the month Atlantic States rising somewhat

For the Gulf States, stationary barometer, northerly winds, stationary temperature and generally clear weather.

For the Middle and East Atlantic coasts, south and east winds, warmer, partly cloudy and foggy, followed by clearing weather and stationary or higher barometer.

For the Upper Mississippi and Lower Missouri valleys, stationary or rising barometer north and west winds, cooler, partly cloudy weather.

For the interior of the Middle and Eastern States, westerly winds, rising barometer, stationary temperature and partly cloudy weather.

THE WEATHER YESTERDAY.

The following record will show the changes in the temperature for the past twenty-four hours, in comparison with the corresponding date of last year, as indicated by the thermometer at Washington, D. C.

1875.		1876.		1875.		1876.
A. M.....	59	65	3:30 P. M.....	80	85
A. M.....	57	66	6 P. M.....	72	78
A. M.....	66	71	9 P. M.....	68	69
M.....	72	78	12 P. M.....	64	66
Average temperature yesterday.				71.4

average temperature for corresponding date last year .....

_____